THE ALTERNATIVE DISPUTE RESOLUTION COMMITTEE (ADRC)

ABOUT US

The Alternative Dispute Resolution Committee (ADRC) at Tamil Nadu National Law University was established in 2018 to serve as a comprehensive platform to introduce law students to the dynamic world of Alternative Dispute Resolution. Our commitment is rooted in preparing law students for the evolving landscape of dispute resolution, where ADR methods are gaining prominence. In furtherance of this commitment, the ADRC has successfully conducted workshops, intra-university ADR competitions, along with six editions of its flagship event, the TNNLU National Med-Arb Competition (NMAC).

OUR GOAL

In a world where traditional dispute resolution mechanisms often falter, we believe in the transformative potential of ADR. The ADRC's mission is to expose and equip budding legal minds with the skills and knowledge necessary to engage in various ADR methods. We aspire to inculcate in our student community the ability to reshape the way disputes are resolved.

TNNLU NATIONAL MED - ARB COMPETITION (NMAC)

ABOUT THE COMPETITION

The National Med-Arb Competition (NMAC) is built upon the edifice of the Med-Arb model of dispute resolution—a mechanism that offers a simple, cost-effective, and decisive course of action for achieving a party-oriented settlement or award. It tests the versatility of a mediator who transitions into the role of an arbitrator while simultaneously challenging the adaptability of participants who must act as a collaborative client-counsel pair during the mediation phase and seamlessly transition into a counsel-counsel dynamic during the arbitration phase. This dual assessment both evaluates and enhances the mediation and arbitration skills of participants.

TNNLU would be honoured to invite your esteemed institution to the Seventh Edition of the TNNLU National Med-Arb Competition, 2026.
